Dear Valued Customers,

Bosch Rexroth is committed to health, safety, and doing all we can to maintain a high level of service. We are taking many actions to help minimize the spread of coronavirus (COVID-19) and continue to assess this dynamic situation and its impact daily.

In keeping our operations running, we know we also need to modify how we work to keep our employees safe. Here are some of the things we are doing to protect the safety and health of our workforce, as well as meet our customer's critical needs during this crisis.

Protecting our Employees and the community

We consider it our responsibility and main concern to do our up most in order to maximize the health protection of our employees and their communities. We have implemented a multiple of measures to ensure this. Those actions are aligned with our preventive health protocols and those of global, regional and national governmental authorities and health organizations including the World Health Organization. In the event that local laws require more stringent measures, we will do whatever is necessary to implement them.

Supporting our customers

We would like to re-assure you that Bosch Rexroth is, also within these extraordinary circumstances, actively working on the situation to secure all deliveries in order to minimize the impact it could have on your operations. This includes:

- Staying in close contact with our suppliers to manage the supply chain,
- Regular re-scoping to keep up to date with current developments
- Installed several preventive actions internally and with our suppliers to minimize effects in the future.
- Coordinating closely with local, state and national governments,
- And following governmental and health authorities' guidelines, which vary by location.

We will continue to closely monitor the situation around the world and address our customers' needs on a case-by-case basis.

We appreciate your understanding and collaboration in these difficult times, which we will overcome as soon as possible.
